Research Support

2012-2014 Community Knowledge for Health Equity, Building Healthy Communities Grant, The California Endowment, ($480,650).

2010-2015 NIH Institute for Clinical Translational Science, Community Engagement Unit, Infrastructure, ($75,000). NIH NCRR UL1 RR031985, Cooper, D – PI.

2010 Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, Active Living Research, New Connections Grant, ($12,000).

- 2008/2009 Community Based Health and Action, Multiple Graduate and Undergraduate Student Projects, Funding from Community Outreach Partnership Center, Community Scholars Program, ID – SURE, UROP. ($26,000)
- 2004/2008 Center for the Study of Latinos in a Global Society Research Award, School of Social Sciences, UC-Irvine. This award funds the development and analysis of a random telephone survey on the correlation between stressful life events and illnesses such as diabetes. The award also funds qualitative community based assessments of health, ($12,000).
- 2005/2007 NIH, National Center on Minority Health and Health Disparity, LRP-Health Disparities Research Scholar Award. This loan repayment award supports the development of a pilot study into the biocultural causes of type 2 diabetes among Latinos in the US, ($65,000).
- 2006/2007 General Clinical Research Center, School of Medicine, UC-Irvine, Research Feasibility Fund Award. This award funds a feasibility study for the use of bioethnographic research methods for characterizing community health disparities in a small local population, ($10,000).
- 2006/2007 Intel Corporation Research Award, Department of Anthropology, UC-Irvine. This award funds research into the role of technology in health related behaviors of urban Latinos living in the US, ($7000).
